NEW CHAIR IN M. S. U. FACULTY.

Mechanical Mathematics to Be Added to Engineering Course.

Columbia, Mo., July 17. Owing to the growing demand among members of the engineering profession for greater practical fight the Democrats have made to expose instruction in engineering in the universities of the country, there has been established in the engineering department of the Eniversity of Missouri the chair of mechanical or applied mathematics.

The object of the chair is to leach the practical application of mathematics to mechanical problems, such as the building of bridges, towers, arches and other architectural work, as well as to the building of machines of all descriptions. The student will be taught how to estimate the amount of material that will be needed to construct a specified work, and also the cost of the same. In this way students will be trained as contracting engineers.

Professor L. M. Defoe, who for a number of years has been assistant professor of mathematics in the University of Missouri, will be placed in charge of the new chair upon his return from a leave of absence in Europe in September, 1962.

Democratic Contention Sustained. The outcome of this case sustains the contention of Democratic Senators and re-futes the plea made by the supporters of the Administration. Smith was openly defended and excused and sulogized on the floor of the Senate. Republican Senators contended that the soldiers were so infuriated by Filipino outrages that they could not be restrained from acts of vengeunce. "The Democrats contended, on the other hand that outrages committed in this Prov-ince were the acts of Smith and that the soldiers and subordinate officers were the unwilling instruments of his ferocity.

The Democratic contention is sustained by the President. It is true that a good deal has been said about the awful cruel-ties of the filipinos as offering an excuse for retaliation, but Smith himself is a wit-ness against this theory. In the signed letter to which I have referred he bears wit-ness to the cordial and friendly relations between the soldiers and the little brown brothers, and said it seemed almost impos-sible to make his officers and men under-
